INTRODUCTION

Pipelines carrying gases and hazardous liquids are one of the safest forms of transportation; however, ‘human error’ is a contributing factor to some failures, and the training, testing, and qualification of pipeline employees is an important measure against failures caused by human error¹. Indeed, pipeline standards and regulations require pipeline staff to be both competent and qualified in all the tasks they perform.^{1,2}

The objective of this Pipeline Integrity Engineer certification program is the same as in the USA standard ASME B31Q [15]: ‘... to minimize the impact on safety and integrity of the pipeline due to human error that may result from an individual’s lack of knowledge, skills, or abilities during the performance of certain activities.

Certification

The purpose of a certification is to ensure that an individual performing a job has sufficient and demonstrable capabilities (competencies) to perform correctly all tasks required of that job.

Individuals certified in ILI Data Analysis and Reporting can explain ILI data analysis and reporting procedures. The program was designed for individuals working in pipeline integrity who either have a university degree from a recognized or accredited university or have four years of relevant work experience within the pipeline integrity field or have an engineering degree from a recognized or accredited university, or who has a professional engineering qualification (for example, PEng. or CEng).

CERTivation & the QPPI Certification Board

CERTivation GmbH is a privately held company located in Lingen, Germany. CERTivation GmbH believes that ensuring the proper authority and autonomy for the certification body is of utmost importance to the credibility and integrity of the certification program.

CERTivation GmbH, the certification body, has granted to the Qualification Panel for the Pipeline Industry (QPPI) an independent panel of qualified subject matter experts (SMEs), to the development of all elements of the certification scheme, including but not limited to the eligibility criteria, recertification requirements.

The QPPI certification board is responsible for overseeing the development of a credible Pipeline Integrity Engineer Certification Program and for ensuring the credentials meet high standards of ethical and professional practice for the industry.
